

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

35-8 June 22

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Salem Athenæum, held on the 26th day of February, A.D. 1858, it was — Voted, That the Committee on the removal of the Library [Messrs. MACK, CHAMBERLAIN, WHEATLAND, and BARSTOW] be authorized to cause such an edition of the Catalogue of the Library to be printed as shall seem to them to be expedient.

Attest:

H. J. CROSS,

Clerk of the Trustees.

P R E F A C E.

THE Trustees of the SALEM ATHENÆUM, soon after the removal of their Library to PLUMMER HALL, ordered the preparation of a new Catalogue. The Compiler, having, for several years previous, performed the ordinary duties of Librarian, accepted the task which was assigned to him, although conscious of wanting that culture and special experience, without which the most painstaking endeavors could not insure precision and neatness in the result. These personal defects have rendered more difficult a work, which, of itself, is perplexing and tedious to a degree which only those can estimate who have been engaged in similar labors.

Four previous Catalogues have been printed. The first three, in 1811, 1818, and 1826, were alphabetical, with a general similarity to the present. The fourth, in 1842, comprised a complete classification of the Books, with a full catalogue of the Pamphlets arranged alphabetically under the authors' names, and was very elaborately and skilfully prepared.

The present Catalogue is similar, in its general plan and style, to that of the Boston Mercantile Library. This system of cataloguing, although especially adapted to libraries of a public character, seemed, under the circumstances, better suited than any other to the wants of the Athenæum.

Each work is registered under the author's name, when that is known; sometimes under the name of the editor, compiler, or translator; and also under that word in the title which best indicates the subject of the book. In some cases, where the title does not clearly denote the nature of the work, it is also entered under some more significant word. Works of imagination, and some others, are placed respectively under the first words of the titles by which they are generally known.

It is regretted that each title could not have been also entered under some comprehensive head, which would have brought into one list all works of a given class, as well as under the author's name, and the special subject or title. Had circumstances permitted, this might have been done, without departing from the general alphabetical system.

In copying titles, the peculiarities of spelling have been retained, which will account for many apparent errors.

The Library contains an extensive collection of Pamphlets, most of which are classified, and bound into volumes. These are not comprised in the Catalogue, except under the general terms Agricultural, Philosophical, Political, Miscellaneous, &c.

The Compiler has endeavored, within certain limits of time, expense, and personal ability, to make such a Catalogue as should be of the most practical benefit; and, whatever errors or defects it may be charged with, he hopes that it will not fail to render more useful the valuable Library to which it is an Index.

HISTORICAL SKETCH.

NO historical account of the SALEM ATHENÆUM, however brief, could omit, without injustice, some mention of the Social and Philosophical Libraries, which were purchased by the Athenæum at its formation in 1810, and became the nucleus of its valuable collection of books in Art, Science, and Literature.

The SOCIAL LIBRARY refers its origin to a period when Salem was a small provincial place, its principal trade being in the fisheries and with some of the West-India Islands, with a population somewhat sparse, yet including many highly intelligent and influential persons. A social evening club, which existed at that time, and continued for many years afterwards, was instituted for improvement in literature and philosophy, and enrolled among its members representatives of the several professions and occupations of the inhabitants.

The subject was probably suggested and discussed, at some of the meetings of this club, of founding a Library, similar in many of its features to that which had been formed in Philadelphia, a few years previous, under the auspices of FRANKLIN. A meeting of those who favored the project was duly called and held, at which a subscription-paper was drawn up and signed as follows :—

SALEM, March 31, 1760.

We the subscribers, sensible of the public advantage of having a well-chosen Library in this town, agree to form ourselves into a Society for that purpose; and hereby promise to pay to STEPHEN HIGGINSON, Esq., the sums set against our names respectively, either in cash, bills of exchange, or books, agreeable to the society, at the sterling cost and charges; the money and bills to be laid out in books in London, conformably to a list agreed on by the Society. The whole to remain deposited for ever in some room in this town provided by the Society for this purpose, to the sole use of tlemen, consisting of Rev. Manasseh Cutler, LL.D., of Hamilton; Rev. Joseph Willard, D.D., LL.D., and Joshua Fisher, M.D., of Beverly; Rev. Thomas Barnard, D.D.; Rev. John Prince, LL.D.; E. Augustus Holyoke, M.D., LL.D., &c., — became the purchasers; and thus was laid the foundation of the PHILOSOPHICAL LIBRARY. An offer of remuneration was afterwards made to Dr. Kirwan, who generously declined it, expressing his satisfaction that his valuable library had found a destination so useful.

The books were kept in the Librarian's house. Rev. Joseph Willard was the first Librarian until his removal to Cambridge to enter upon the duties of the Presidency of Harvard University; when Rev. John Prince was appointed to succeed him, and continued in office until the formation of the Athenæum.

The late NATHANIEL BOWDITCH, LL.D., when a young man, was enabled, through the kindness of the proprietors, to pursue his studies under very favorable auspices, by having free access to this Library, which contained many important scientific books. In order to repay the debt of gratitude which he felt he had incurred, he left in his will, made fifty years afterwards, the sum of one thousand dollars for the use of the Salem Athenæum. The proprietors of the Philosophical Library, in the transfer of their shares to the Athenæum, stipulated the following condition, which was acceded to, "that the periodical works belonging to said Library shall be continued by the proprietors of the Athenæum;" evidently intending that the scientific character of the new Library should be preserved. The income from the bequest of Dr. Bowditch has been very properly applied to the fulfilment of this condition.

THE SALEM ATHENÆUM was incorporated in March, 1810. The first meeting was held April 11, 1810; and it was then voted that the value of a share should be one hundred dollars; that the annual assessment should never exceed ten dollars; and that the Athenæum should consist permanently of a Reading-Room, and also of a Library, which should circulate among the proprietors in such manner as should be determined by the By-Laws. It was also voted to purchase the "Philosophical" and "Social" Libraries at fifty dollars a share, and a Committee was authorized to bargain for the same accordingly.

Satisfactory arrangements having been made for the purchase of the two Libraries, the Trustees obtained a lease of two rooms in Central Building, on Market (now Central) Street, for a term of five years; and the rooms were opened on the 11th of July. In April, 1815, the Library was removed to rooms in Essex Place. In 1825, it was again removed to rooms over the Salem Bank; and thence, in 1842, to Lawrence Place, where it remained until April, 1857, when it was deposited in Plummer Hall.

Miss CAROLINE PLUMMER, a lady of refined literary tastes and a benevolent disposition, died in Salem, May 15, 1854, at the age of seventy-four years. Her brother, ERNESTUS AUGUSTUS PLUMMER, whose estate she inherited, had been greatly interested in the Athenæum; had evinced his friendship by valuable donations; and, in conversation, had often alluded to the importance of a suitable building for its preservation.

Miss Plummer, by her will, bequeathed to the Proprietors of the Athenæum the sum of THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS; which bequest she directed should be very distinctly recorded as a gift from her "beloved brother, Ernestus A. Plummer," to be "appropriated for the purchasing a piece of land in some central and convenient spot in the city of Salem, and erecting thereon a safe and elegant building, of brick or stone, to be employed for the purpose of depositing the books belonging to said Corporation, with liberty also to have the rooms thereof used for meetings of any literary or scientific institutions, or for the deposit of any works of art or natural productions."

The bequest was accepted; and measures were taken for the erection of the specified building, which it was ordered should bear the name of PLUMMER HALL.

A suitable site was purchased; and a Building Committee was appointed, who secured the services of Mr. Enoch Fuller, an accomplished architect, and, in accordance with plans furnished by him, proceeded to the work. The corner-stone was laid June 13, 1856; the building was formally accepted from the Building Committee, Sept. 21, 1857, and was dedicated, with appropriate services, on the 6th of October following.

Not long before the completion of the edifice, proposals were made to, and accepted by, the Essex Institute, as follows :—

The Proprietors of the Salem Athenæum agree, —

1st, To allow the Essex Institute to use the rooms on the lower floor of PLUMMER HALL for any purposes consistent with the terms of Miss Plummer's will.

2d, To allow the Essex Institute, after the Athenæum has been accommodated, sufficient space for their library on the second floor, together with such privileges in all the rooms on the same floor as may be necessary for the care, delivery, and consulting of their books.

3d, To allow members of the Essex Institute, who have paid all their dues to that body, to consult the books of the Athenæum Library.

Provided that the Essex Institute, at a legal meeting called for the special purpose of considering this subject, shall agree, —

1st, To pay to the Athenæum, annually, the sum of three hundred dollars.

2d, To allow the Proprietors of the Athenæum to consult the books of the Institute Library.

3d, To pay one-half the expense of warming the building, and keeping its approaches unobstructed.

4th, That two years' notice by either party may terminate this agreement.

By this arrangement, which is strictly in accordance with the terms of Miss Plummer's will, — if not implicitly recommended therein, — the beneficence of the testatrix is extended beyond the immediate recipients of her bounty ; at the same time adding to the income of the Athenæum, and giving its Proprietors a valuable privilege in another Library, without subtracting in any degree from their own convenience.

The Essex Institute was formed by the union of the Essex Historical Society and the Essex-County Natural-History Society. Its objects are to encourage historical research and the study of natural history, and also to promote horticulture and kindred pursuits. It possesses a large library, and extensive and well-arranged cabinets of collections in history and natural science.

PLUMMER HALL, thus acquired and occupied, is a handsome building of brick and freestone, fronting on Essex Street, in the Romanesque style of architecture, ninety-seven feet long and fifty-three wide. The lower story is finished sixteen feet in height, and includes, besides a spacious vestibule, a hall fifty-eight feet long by forty-eight wide, and two anterooms, one on each side of the entrance, thirty-four feet in length by sixteen in breadth ; which three rooms are occupied by the collections of the Essex Institute. A broad stairway rises from the vestibule to the second story, which is divided into three rooms of the same dimensions as those below, except the height, which varies from nineteen feet in the anterooms to thirty-one feet in the middle of the hall. The western anteroom contains a part of the Library of the Athenæum ; and the eastern is occupied by that of the Essex South District Medical Society, and a part of that of the Institute.

The large Library Room is elegantly finished, having a range of Corinthian columns on either side, twelve feet from the wall, and twenty-one feet in height. These support an entablature, from which rises the arched ceiling to the height of thirty-one feet from the floor. The ceiling is neatly panelled, and the cornice and capitals are richly wrought in stucco. Immediately behind each column is a triangular case, supporting the gallery, separating the alcoves, and fitted with shelves on its three sides, one of which is parallel with the wall ; leaving a passage three feet in width, connecting the four alcoves, on either side of the room. At the rear of the hall, a spiral flight of iron stairs rises to the gallery, which extends along the rear and two sides of the hall, and is deeply incurved between the columns ; thus forming a serpentine outline on the front, which is guarded by a neat iron railing. The arrangement of the shelving in the gallery corresponds with that below, filling all the available space on the walls and the sides of the cases. In numbering the shelves, the decimal system of Dr. Shurtleff was followed in its main features. The western side of the hall is occupied by the Athenæum Library ; the eastern, by that of the Institute. The room is well lighted by large windows, one to each alcove, and also by apertures in the roof.

The present number of volumes in the Library is about 11,000. They have principally been obtained by moneys arising from the sale of shares and from the annual assessments, although many valuable works have been received as donations from the friends of the institution. Among these may be mentioned eighty-nine volumes of documents published by the Record Commission, presented by the British government; Audubon's "Birds of America," from N. Bowditch, J. I. Bowditch, William Pickman, Joseph Peabody, N. Silsbee, S. C. Phillips, D. A. White, Benjamin Pickman, D. L. Pickman, and Miss Susan Burley; Bowditch's Translation of the "Mécanique Céleste" of La Place, from the translator; "Histoire" et "Mémoires de l'Académie Royale des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres," seventy-six volumes, from Theodore Lyman, of Boston; and Boydell's "Shakspeare Gallery," American edition, from Dr. George B. Loring; besides other valuable books from Edwin Bartlett, E. A. Plummer, J. Augustus Peabody, John Pickering, Benjamin Merrill, and others.

The sum of one thousand dollars, left by the will of the late Miss Susan Burley, has been expended according to directions, — three-fifths in the purchase of theological works, and the remaining two-fifths in books in the modern European languages. The income arising from the legacy of five hundred dollars, bequeathed by the late Miss Mehitable Higginson, has likewise been expended in books in the modern European languages.

Although the Library is a valuable collection, yet the Catalogue will show that the various departments of science and literature are very unequally, and some very meagrely, represented. The Athenæum is free from debt, and has received many noble benefits; yet only a limited portion of its small fund is available for general purposes. Although this institution has not that urgent claim upon the generosity of the rich which those of a purely benevolent character may justly assert, it is still one of a class which the liberal and large-minded possessors of wealth have ever loved to endow. Whatever may be its fortune in this respect, it is hoped that such honorable use may be made of the treasures which it holds, that no future benefaction may give rise to reflections upon the ill-deserts of the recipients.
